MONTAGUE-B. BLACK •

NAZIS STAGGER UNDER MIGHT OF SOVIET DRIVE

NO FIGHTING TO THE DEATH for this German rearguard who were ordered to protect the retreat of some of their comrades from the fast-pursuing Russian troops. Instead, they surrendered. The Red army is blasting away on all fronts, strongly supported by heavy tanks and dive bombers, many of them American and English made. Soviet parachutists and guerrilla groups are increasingly active. Hitler is said to be taking reserves from Nazi-held countries in a desperate attempt to stem the Soviet drive.

AMERICAN FIGHTING PLANES of the "Tomahawk" type have been sent to the aid of our Russian Allies. Here a group of heavily garbed Soviet airmen receive operational orders from Capt. Naidenko (centre) before they take off in their machines.

SPEEDY TRANSPORTATION. Operating out of a propeller-powered sledge, a group of Russian soldiers advance at a point in the rear of the German lines. Transit over snow wastes proves no problem.

VALUABLE BOOTY. Red army soldiers examine guns and equipment left hurriedly by the retreating Spanish Blue Division of Germany's 16th Field Army after a defeat in the Staraya Russa sector. Red ski troops made a daring raid to the outskirts of the city.

THE ROYAL NAVY MAINTAINS ARCTIC LIFELINE

WEAPONS MADE IN BRITAIN have been playing an important job in the Russian counter-offensive, and it is up to the Royal Navy to see that they arrive safely at their destination. Travelling this Arctic life-line, a convoy of merchantmen, some of them Russian, are escorted by British warships and minesweepers. Stokers on this cruiser bringing up the rear of the convoy are de-icing chains and capstan with a jet of steam. As the convoy nears the coast of Russia a temperature of 52 degrees frost is not unusual.

AN OVERCOAT OF ICE AND SNOW is sparted by this British warship as it protects a convoy carrying important war materials to equip the Red army. Crews manning these ships receive an issue of Arctic clothing. Far days these boats follow a carefully planned course until the Russian port is reached. The convoy is farmed in the dark at a planned rendezvous and the whole voyage except for a brief hour or two of dawn is made in the dark. In these latitudes the sun is little seen for a period of at least three months.

THIS BRITISH CRUISER is on its way to a rendezvous with a convoy of merchantmen which will take to an Arctic port munitions for the Soviet armies. During winter months in seas north of the Arctic circle weather conditions are severe and sailors unused to low temperatures register surprise to find their fingers "burned" when touching metal at 20 below on the Russian coast.

LIKE ARCTIC EXPLORERS, these officers peer forth from under closely drawn parkas. Heavy frost on the signal bridge shows that the elements, as well as Nazi U-boats, must be faced.

A NOVEL EXPERIENCE for the cruiser's crew is having to shovel snow in order to free the anchor chains. The vessel is in a Soviet Arctic harbor, with Siberian hills showing in the background.

THIS SIGNALMAN'S JOB is to ring the bell on the signal bridge every 10 seconds. Because the air is colder than the water, there's an especially heavy brand of fog inside the Arctic circle.

IN THE GUN HOUSE of the cruiser's turret, twenty men in the night watch take turns sleeping. Their chief discomfort is not so much the cold as the condensation dripping down from the roof.

BRITISH DESTROYER DOES SOME WINDJAMMING

ONE OF THE CURIOUS naval happenings of the war was the use of sail on a British destroyer. The steering gear jammed and the heavy weather caused engine trouble. To keep from being at the mercy of the seas, the commander went back to the old windjamming days and hoisted sail. The crew are seen rigging canvas along the bow stay, and the iron ship manoeuvred like a wooden ship under a jib sail only. This use of the wind offset the loss of a rudder and the crippled vessel managed to crawl 150 miles to a harbor.

CRUISER ATLANTA IS AMERICA'S OCEAN GREYHOUND

IN THE OPEN SEA, with a bone in her teeth, the U. S. light cruiser Atlanta (6,000 tons) demonstrates her 38-knot speed. Like all other United States cruisers, she is called after a city. In her class are three others, the Juneau, San Diego and San Juan, all designed to serve as flagships for destroyer flotillas. She has 12 five-inch guns and 12 smaller ones together with six torpedo tubes. With her speed and light armor, she can scout for the big battleships. Without armament, her cost was close to $13,000,000.

CANADA'S ARMY AS SEEN BY SOLDIER-ARTISTS

POSTERITY NEED NOT rely on the camera alone for pictorial records of World War No. 2. Canadian soldier-artists, men who have seen the grim efficiency of modern military machines, are busy recording vital aspects of our war effort. Here is an oil painting by

E. J. Hughes, showing the mighty guns which guard Canadian shores. Army, navy and air force all have artists in their ranks who capture some of the spirit as well as the facts of the present struggle. Before long art of the three services may be co-ordinated.

SPIRITED ACTION by Canadian ski troops in practice at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa, has been caught by O. N. Fisher in this oil painting for war records. The army branch of war art is directed by Col. F. A. Duquid of department of national defence, who insists on great accuracy of detail. Soldiers and their equipment must be correct enough to stand inspection by experts. Artists Fisher and Hughes, both from the Canadian west, are noted for their mural painting for war records.

"It's the kind of vegetable soup I'd be proud to make myself!"

"A good rich stock of beef, you know,
And fifteen vegetables fixed just so!"

Many a good home cook is proud indeed to serve her family steaming, savory plates of Campbell's Vegetable Soup. Many write to tell us they couldn't serve a more flavorful, more nourishing vegetable soup . . . no, not even if they made it themselves.

For Campbell's make vegetable soup the good home way. Fine beef, tender and juicy, is simmered well and thoroughly, until the stock is rich, full-flavored and invigorating. Cooked in this hearty stock are fifteen luscious vegetables . . . each selected from the section where it grows at its best. And Campbell's capture not only the fine, full flavor of these fifteen vegetables but their healthful values as well.

You'll know the minute you taste it—especially if you have ever made soup yourself—that this is your kind of vegetable soup . . . just the kind to tempt a hungry man or satisfy the eager appetites that youngsters bring home from school or play. Why not keep several cans of Campbell's Vegetable Soup on hand? Chances are you'll want to serve it often.

WAKE IS AVENGED AND BRITISH GENERALS CONFER

THE UNITED STATES NAVY has taken ample revenge for Wake, the Pacific island which the marines surrendered after a gallant defence. In a recent surprise attack, Japanese shore installations were smashed, two patrol boats and three big seaplanes were sunk. When the task force left this horseshoe-shaped coral island was ablaze from end to end as ammunition dumps and oil tanks caught fire. With a fighter plane ready to be catapulted from her decks and her anti-aircraft guns pointed skyward for Jap bombers, this American cruiser lets go with a mighty salvo from her big guns. Japan's stronghold was badly battered with negligible U.S. losses.

BRITAIN'S ACE GENERALS are seen in a conference that bodes no good for the German and Japanese forces attacking in the Near East and India and Burma respectively. General Wavell, right, has the job of holding Japan. The other, General Auchinleck, commands in both Near and Middle East.

RESCUE 38 AS FREIGHTER GROUND ON REEF

FROM THIS BATTERED, reef-grounded vessel were rescued 38 seamen. Taken by a patrol plane of the R.C.A.F., this picture shows an Allied merchant freighter lying at the mercy of the mounting seas, after being grounded on the treacherous reefs off Sable Island, near Canada's coast. As a result of a most daring feat of seamanship, and at the cost of one sailor's life, 38 of the stricken vessel's crew were dramatically rescued. Ten men lost their lives when part of the wrecked ship broke away.

NEW ARCHBISHOP FOLLOWS IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

DR. WM. TEMPLE, new Archbishop of Canterbury, is seen outside his residence in York, which archbishopric he served 13 years. The new archbishop is the first Socialist to be primate of all England, which post his father held, 1896-1903.

DR. TEMPLE'S SALARY increases to £15,000 from £9,000 with the new appointment. The 60-year-old primate will be unable to live in Lambeth Palace, his new official residence, as German bombs have damaged it.

EVERYWHERE in the home of Dr. Temple are books, many of them on philosophy, for he is himself a learned philosopher. A keen social reformer, he is conscious of social wrongs and is quick to see and negotiate reforms.

Jack and Alan, the Sampson Twins, champion swimmers, tournament golfers, team up in a new contest.

"Honors are usually pretty even between us, in swimming, golf, or track... almost any sport for which we can find the time. But when we made the tooth powder test... wow! Jack beat me a mile because he was using Pepsodent... I had chosen another well-known leading brand."

"It wasn't even close! Same ties and shirts, same clothes; but at school, friends knew Jack at a glance... because his teeth were factor as bright! No question about it—Pepsodent made the difference! That's why the family began using it, too, even before the test was over!"

ANTI-AIRCRAFT GUN is shown on fortress-like Newfoundland, vital British outpost. Maj.-Gen. L. F. Poge was recently appointed commander-in-chief of Canadian forces there with Rear-Admiral L. W. Murray his senior officer.

SUCH COASTAL GUNS AS THESE, sunk deep in concrete emplacements on the shores of Newfoundland, defend vital positions up the entire length of the Atlantic coast. Canadian troops co-operate with Americans in defence there.

"PEOPLE OF NEWFOUNDLAND are so kind they would give you their shirt," remarked one Canadian soldier stationed in Newfoundland. Mrs. Seymour Chafe and family are seen entertaining several Canadian soldiers at dinner.

*"You take your laxatives
-I'll take ANDREWS"*

START THE DAY RIGHT!

IT'S A HABIT with thousands—one you'll enjoy—to start each day right with a light regulative glassful of ANDREWS to avoid eliminative upsets.

All drugstores have it. Four-oz. tin, 44¢; 8-oz. tin, 77¢; 10-oz. bottle, 89¢.

CATCHING COLD? Ask a dozen different people and you'll learn as many different ways to fight it, all beginning with "open the bowels." But merely opening the bowels is not enough! For when bowels need help, other organs usually need help, too—and they can't get it from ordinary laxatives that move the bowels but do nothing more.

Many people who know these facts wisely rely on ANDREWS for its sensible, quick, four-way relief. Try it! The minute a snuffle or sneeze warns of a cold, drink a sparkling glassful of ANDREWS, and take more as directed. It opens the bowels, stimulates the liver, helps the kidneys and acts to neutralize excess gastric acid, thus speeding relief and prolonging comfort. Remember ANDREWS for headache, too, and for digestive upsets.

CANADA HAS SKI TROOPS standing on guard far Newfoundland as well as far Canada. This soldier gazing down at a little fishing village in its rocky cove won't be envied by skiers. There's not enough snow on the hills.

ON SEMAPHORE DRILL, one signalman handles the telescope, another waves semaphore flags and a third signals with a lamp. The fourth member of crew, who hails from Saint John, N.B., makes a record of the various signals.

GUARDING NEWFOUNDLAND is a 24-hour-a-day job. The defenders remove their boots, but sleep with their cartridge belts. Sergeant Savard of Coaticook, Que., counts his cartridges before he tucks himself into bed.

THE EXACT SIZE of the Canadian garrison that is now in Newfoundland is a military secret, but there are plenty of our lads assisting the Americans. Two of the boys from Canada feed live shells into a coast defence gun.

"YOUNG BUT TOUGH," describes a Toronto artillery regiment, which recently drove back an enemy "attack" that reached the city's outskirts. Here a gun crew whirls its howitzer into action.

OUT OF THE ENDLESS NOWHERE RADIO GIVES THE "ALL'S WELL"!

On Labrador's bleak coastline—in the frozen wastes of the regions rimming Hudson's Bay—along the rocky shores of British Columbia—Canada's radio outposts form a chain of listening posts—a ring of sentinels that maintain constant vigil to guard us against surprise attack.

Equipped with powerful receiving and transmitting sets, outpost stations pick up the reports of patrolling planes and ships—relay the messages to headquarters, and, from headquarters, receive and relay orders that control and co-ordinate Canada's air and naval patrols.

How great is the task these outpost radio stations perform, can best be realized by visualizing "the endless nowhere" of Canada's sparsely peopled Northern regions... by visualizing the army of sentries we would need if each of the countless miles of Canada's coastlines had to be patrolled without the aid of radio's swift communication.

Designing, manufacturing and installing radio receiving and transmitting equipment for such radio outposts is one wartime duty, typical of many now being performed by RCA Victor's greatly-expanded manufacturing plant in Montreal.

SERVING CANADA

RCA Victor Radio Transmitters and Receivers Provide Vital Wartime Communications!

Twenty-four hours a day, three hundred and sixty-five days per year, the operators of Canada's outpost radio stations stand guard to forewarn us against surprise attack by sea or air. Their radio equipment must not fail.

The army of workers, engineers and scientists who made RCA Victor's name outstanding in the peacetime radio world, today take the same pride in manufacturing for Canada's wartime radio outposts, receiving and transmitting equipment outstanding for unflinching dependability.

RUSSIA STEADILY WINS BACK ITS SCORCHED LANDS

ALL RUSSIA TODAY takes off its hat to the heroes who have successfully defended Leningrad. These sailors from the port of Kronstadt manned an anti-aircraft gun in this epochal struggle.

MANY OF THE TOWNS recaptured by advancing Soviet troops have been found in ruins like this. But it is only a preview of what will happen to Germans when their own country is invaded.

IN THE LAST FEW WEEKS the Russians claim 16,000 Germans have been killed while retreating from the Leningrad front. Some of the Russian soldiers fighting in this area are here shown.

LIEUTENANT-GENERAL Leonid Govorov explains the progress of operations against the invaders to a delegation of workers from far-off Asiatic Russia when they recently visited the front lines.

AT WINTER'S END, a battalion of Russian troops clad in white move forward in the important battle fought around Staraya Russa.

LIFEBOAT CREWS HELP IN BATTLE OF ATLANTIC

SILVER JETS OF WATER spread out in a fan as this lifeboat is launched in England. Thousands of sea-travellers, sailors and fishermen owe their lives to crews of similar lifeboats patrolling British waters. In the first 27 months of this war, 4,325 lives were saved. Several crews operate in the storm-swept area, where the Atlantic ocean meets the English Channel. All play vital roles.

CADGWITH, on the Cornish coast a few miles from Land's End, is the home of one of the crews which go down to the sea to save lives.

WARM BLANKETS, tea and a hot stove soon restore life to numbed limbs when rescues are brought to the home of one of the crew.

IF WE JUDGE by this picture, the emancipation of Chinese women has come with a vengeance. Now they not only perform civilian war duties, but are trained for real fighting as well. Here are several in their new uniforms.

GRIM EVIDENCE of warfare in southern China is this picture of a shopping district in Chungtien. Frequent raids and guerrilla activities have wrought havoc to the shop of Tau, dealer in gold and musk, seen in the centre.

THE CHINESE are doing all in their power to speed the development of military aviation. Here, at an airfield, ground-crew students are rushing out to meet a plane returning from action. They will inspect it thoroughly.

STIRLING BOMBERS TAKE OFF ON BUSINESS JAUNT

MIGHTY CRAFT OF THE AIR are these huge British Stirling bombers, the largest four-engined bombing planes in the world. Relentlessly, they continue to pound enemy territory in the most vital places. The enemy's strongest defences are no proof against these planes, and many a young Canadian airman is found among its crew. Here is shown a flight of Stirling bombers in formation. These giant machines are, in effect, flying "box cars," designed particularly for mass production.

LONDON RIVER barrage balloon units have adequately fitted up barges for living quarters. They accompany the operational barges. Shown in picture are small balloon "spares."

STIRLING bombers carry the heaviest load of any of the front line bombers in the R.A.F. Loading capacity and cruising range exceed even that of the American Flying Fortresses. In spite of the fact it was the Americans who first devised the principle of dive-bombing, a deadly weapon in the hands of expert aviators but one which is also dangerous to the pilots, it is the Germans who make most use of it. This is because the secret bomb sight, invented in the U.S. and available to the United Nations, makes horizontal bombing much safer.

ODD SHOTS IN THE NEWS

COLLECTING AND REPAIRING the now almost extinct cigar store Indian is the hobby of Dr. A. W. Pendergast.

"Imagine! My husband's ex-sweetheart asking me for advice!"

A young wife discusses modern baby care

1. Janie used to be my husband's schoolgirl sweetheart. But we've become very friendly now that she's married, and we see her and her husband quite often. She hasn't given out the news yet, but lately, she's been asking a lot of questions about baby care . . .

2. Last Saturday afternoon, Janie dropped in when I'd just bought a specially designed "baby-walker." I saw her brow wrinkle. She asked me if that wasn't pampering the child. It seemed to her that everything our baby had was special—even a special laxative! "Come, come, Janie," I said reprovingly. "Would it be 'pampering' to feed a baby special foods?" Janie shook her head.

3. "Exactly!" I said. "And—like foods—most other baby needs ought to be special, too. Child authorities agree on that! Look—you spoke of our baby's laxative. I didn't pick that. It's Castoria, chosen by our doctor, because it is made especially for children. It's mild and safe."

4. "Our doctor said an adult laxative might be too strong for a baby's delicate system. But in Castoria, there isn't a single harsh drug. And it works mostly in the lower bowel, leaving the small stomach up above undisturbed. Castoria doesn't gripe and it isn't likely to form a habit. What's more—children love it. Watch this—"

5. When the little one actually held out her hands and cooed over the good taste of Castoria—Janie smiled. "Well," said she, "that certainly teaches me a lesson. Believe me—I'll remember about special care for babies and special Castoria."

HARD HITTING COMMANDOS CARRY WAR TO NAZIS

THE WORD "INVASION" once meant the possibility of German troops invading England, but now hard-hitting commando forces of the British army are giving their version of the word. Recently, acting with paratroops, they stormed a radiolocator station in France, destroyed it, and returned safely. Above, they carry out a practice landing during their hard and intensive training.

MURDEROUS FIRE from Bren guns greets the enemy as an invasion barge, laden with commando troops, approaches the landing point.

ARMORED BARGES driven by powerful motors, and whose speed is a secret, are a necessary part of commando equipment. Here they advance for a mock invasion.

TEMPLETON'S T-R-C's

HARD-HITTING COMMANDOS, whose hit-and-run raids extend from the coast of Norway to farays into the heart of occupied France, are striking a stern blow for victory. Aided by navy, army and air force units, and bolstered by paratroops, they destroyed a radio station at Bruneval, France. Extensive training has made them fit for any emergency. Here they practise landing from special craft.

LORD HALIFAX in Washington recently predicted that the number of raids by commandos and paratroops "would increase in number and strength." The flap has been lowered on the armed barge and the doors opened. In the space of a few seconds they will be on the beach and charging objective.

DON'T GAMBLE, MOTHER

YOUR INSTINCT WARNS YOU ABOUT UNKNOWN REMEDIES

Give your child only well-known preparations your own doctor would approve.

Save pennies on other things... not on what you give your upset child

Pass up the bargains. Play safe when your child's health is at stake.

Likely your doctor has warned you, mother, "Don't give your child an unknown remedy. If you are offered one, ask me about it before you buy it. Don't take chances."

So follow your doctor's advice, especially when it comes to the all-important and frequently used "Milk of Magnesia." Many doctors for more than 60 years have said—"Get Phillips' Milk of Magnesia for your child." For it's one of the outstanding, scientific products of the world.

So when your doctor says, "Get Phillips' Milk of Magnesia," be sure you get the genuine "Phillips'" article. Look for the name "Phillips'" stamped clearly on the package.

Get either the regular liquid Phillips' or the peppermint flavored Phillips' Tablets that children love to take. A big box costs only 25¢.

A wise way to save money is to consult your family physician frequently—to safeguard against serious illness.

AMERICA SPEEDS TANK PRODUCTION

EVERY DAY more and more tanks are tumbling off production lines from factories throughout the United States. Once geared to the high speed production of cars, automotive works have shelved their tools for the duration and installed machinery for making heavy tanks. The tap picture shows the iron horses rolling down production lines; under it is illustrated an American tank transporter, used to prevent wear and tear on tank treads. Fully loaded, the tank transporter weighs over 30 tons, and is powered by a 130 h.p. motor. The tank which is being hoisted aboard is a Valentine, one of the many types now being tested by the Allies on their various war fronts. Valentines are manufactured in Canada and, according to Hon. C. D. Howe, several hundreds have already been shipped to Russia. At present Axis and Allied scientists are racing to produce superior tanks.

Mrs. Purvis

was so "nervous"

—At least that was what she told sympathetic friends when they asked her how she felt.

She was irritable all right. Had no patience with Mr. Purvis or the children.

She couldn't sleep either. That was bad, too, for she seemed tired all the time. No wonder she was worried. But she never thought of her kidneys being to blame until her sister-in-law suggested she try Dodd's Kidney Pills. And to think she had been so miserable for so long, with such safe relief so close at hand, and so easy to use.
